

Richard le Bruen

Hugh de Woodhall sued Richard le Bruen for having on Saturday 24 April 1305 seized a horse of his and driven it to Chester, where it died for want of care. Richard said that he, as the earl's bailiff, had taken the horse for various moneys due according to the exchequer estreats.

17:63: 5 October 1305

[p^r.]

Ric'us bruyn atach' fuit ad r'. Hugoni de Wodhalle de pl'ito capc' vni^s equi. Et vnde quer^r q'd p^rd'cus Ric'us die sab' p^x^a post f'm Pasch' anno r'r'. E. xxxij.⁹³ cepit equ' ip'ius Hug' & illu' apud Cestr' fug' & ibidem cont^a vad' & pleg' det' quousq' p^r defaltam ip'ius Ric'i obiit vnde dicit q'd deter' est & dampna h'et ad valenc' viginti sol' & inde pducit secta'. Et p^rd'cus Ric'us ven' & def' vim & iniur' q'n &c' & tamq^am ball' d'ni Com' b'n cogn' capc'om illi^s equi p^r quib^sd' den' debitis eodem Com' p^r ext^actas scc^aii Cestr'. Et si idem Hugo den' illos g^at^s soluisse voluisset, deliberac'om illi^s equi h'uisset ita q'd equus p^rd'cus no' obiit p^r defectu ip'ius Ric'i, immo p^r defectu ip'ius Hug' p^r eo q'd den' p^rd'cos tempe debito solu^re no' emanit & hoc petit q'd inquir^r. & p^rd'cis Hugo simil'r. I'o. p^r. est vic' q'd de visn' &c', ven' fac' &c' .xij. &c' qui n^c &c'.

⁹³ Saturday 24 April 1305